

Creating a feedback-rich culture with the brain in mind

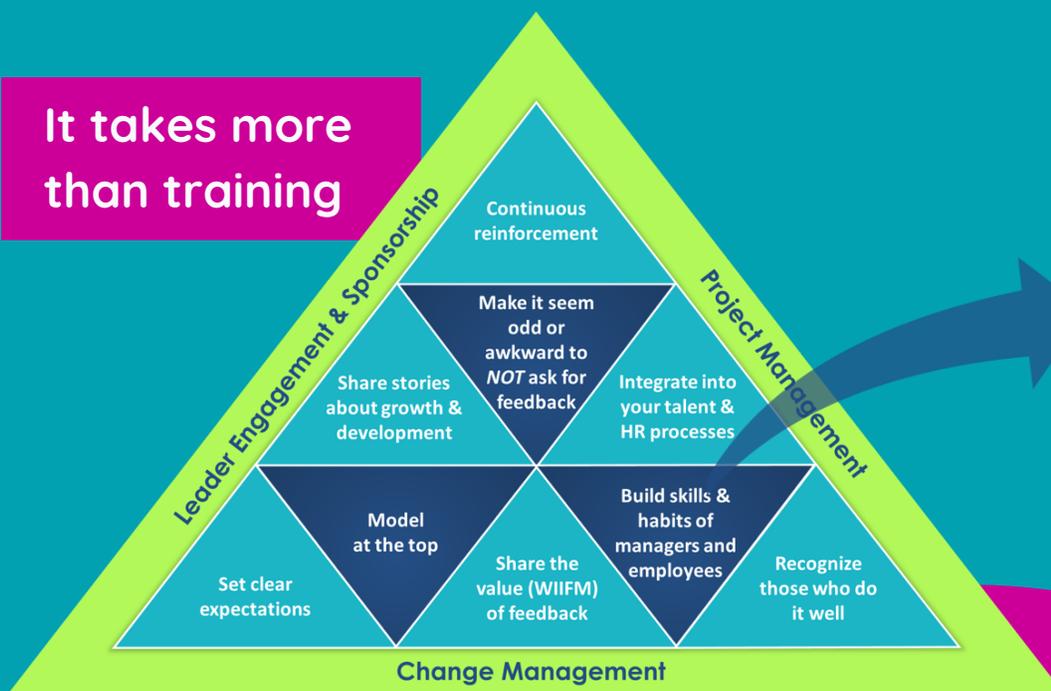

Feedback. Insight. Perspective...
Whatever we call it we need it to learn & grow

An age-old challenge: Most people don't like to give feedback or don't do it well. In general, people don't like it when they receive unsolicited feedback.

What's changed? We have learned a lot in the field of neuroscience about how our brain works and our natural response to feedback.

Why now? Many organizations are shifting their approach to performance reviews / performance management. Even with these changes, feedback is foundational for success.

It takes more than training

Classroom & Virtual Sessions Available

PERSPEKTIVES®
Coaching & Consulting

To learn more, contact:

Louise Keefe

LouiseKeefe@Perspektives.com

Ph. 949-981-9302

www.Perspektives.com